

population increases. Once the FHA study is completed, federal assistance will be available to small towns and rural communities to update or construct needed public utilities.

It is recommended that the county government assist communities in securing needed water supply and sewage disposal systems. Communities like Belfast, Patetown, Pinewood and MarMac should qualify for such assistance. Water supply and sewage disposal systems should be designed and coordinated so that they can be logically and economically tied together and expanded to serve areas with the greatest potential for growth.
